32nd Annual Summer Institute on College Teaching

What participants have to say...

"I learned quite a bit and would recommend it to others..."

"Overall, the Institute has been very helpful to me. It has provided me with a wealth of ideas and material to use in my own teaching situation. I would definitely recommend it."

"The Institute sparked my imagination to think of different ways of teaching. It was a lot of work, but it was worth it."

32nd Annual Summer Institute on College Teaching

June 6-10,
2010

The Virginia Tidewater Consortium's Summer Institute on College Teaching is in its thirty-second year of helping faculty at every level and discipline to become more effective teachers.

Participants are thrilled with the program...

"It was a very intensive week that helped rejuvenate my enthusiasm for teaching."

Cost

$800.00

(Most institutions have some funds available for faculty development; please contact your administration.)

- Includes: Lectures, demonstrations, workshops, individual consultations and all meals (Dinner on Sunday, Breakfast Lunch & Dinner Monday through Wednesday and Breakfast on Thursday) at the College of William & Mary.

Lodging

Room reservations can be made at the Williamsburg Hospitality House, which is adjacent to the College of William & Mary. A special room rate of $97.00 has been secured for participants from 2 days prior to 2 days after the Institute dates. To make reservations, please call: 1-800-932-9192 no later than May 7, 2010 to receive the group rate. When you call, please identify yourself as a participant of VTC's Summer Institute on College Teaching.

Topics

Instructional innovation, testing and grading, small group strategies, lecturing, cooperative learning, technology in the classroom, course and teacher evaluation, questioning skills, teaching and learning styles, student assessment, student retention of class material, and how to make classes more interactive.

Faculty

Dr. Robert Hanny, Professor Emeritus, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia and Dr. Lawrence Dotolo, President, Virginia Tidewater Consortium for Higher Education, Norfolk, Virginia. Faculty will include consultants with expertise in testing, lecturing, cooperative learning, teaching evaluations and other areas.

Over the years, hundreds of faculty have participated in the Institute and have found it very worthwhile and rewarding. The Institute is unique in that it allows faculty members the opportunity to discuss college teaching and learning in-depth with their colleagues in a non-threatening, pleasant environment. Since enrollment in the Institute is limited, there is ample time for one-on-one discussion with the other faculty.

Although the Institute is intensive in that there are morning, afternoon and some evening seminars, the experience is most enjoyable since such a wide array of topics are discussed. Participating faculty often become quite involved in the topics, and all who attend are required to design an action plan for their next semester of teaching based on one of the topics addressed during the Institute. One of the important aspects of the Summer Institute is the emphasis on the practical application of what is learned. The Summer Institute is specifically designed to have an impact on the teaching and learning process, and hopefully have a long-term positive effect on the faculty member.
