The Virginia Tidewater Consortium is an affirmative action, equal opportunity organization.
The Virginia Tidewater Consortium's Summer Institute on College Teaching is in its thirty-fifth year of helping faculty at every level and discipline to become more effective teachers.

Participants are thrilled with the program...

“It was a very intensive week that helped rejuvenate my enthusiasm for teaching.”

Cost

$800.00

(Most institutions have some funds available for faculty development; please contact your administration.)

- Includes: Lectures, demonstrations, workshops, individual consultations and all meals (Dinner on Sunday, Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner Monday through Wednesday, and Breakfast on Thursday) at the College of William & Mary.

Lodging

Room reservations can be made at the Williamsburg Hospitality House, which is adjacent to the College of William & Mary. When you call, please identify yourself as a participant of VTC’s Summer Institute on College Teaching.

Topics

Instructional innovation, testing and grading, small group strategies, lecturing, cooperative learning, technology in the classroom, course and teacher evaluation, questioning skills, teaching and learning styles, student assessment, student retention of class material, and how to make classes more interactive.

Faculty

Dr. Lawrence Dotolo, President, Virginia Tidewater Consortium for Higher Education, Norfolk, Virginia; Dr. Robert Hanny, Professor Emeritus, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia; and Dr. Mark Sarver, Chief Executive Officer, eduKan, Great Bend, Kansas.

Over the years, hundreds of faculty have participated in the Institute and have found it very worthwhile and rewarding. The Institute is unique in that it allows faculty members the opportunity to discuss college teaching and learning in-depth with their colleagues in a non-threatening, pleasant environment. Since enrollment in the Institute is limited, there is ample time for one-on-one discussion with the other faculty.

Although the Institute is intensive in that there are morning, afternoon and some evening seminars, the experience is most enjoyable since such a wide array of topics are discussed. Participating faculty often become quite involved in the topics, and all who attend are required to design an action plan for their next semester of teaching based on one of the topics addressed during the Institute. One of the important aspects of the Summer Institute is the emphasis on the practical application of what is learned. The Summer Institute is specifically designed to have an impact on the teaching and learning process, and hopefully have a long-term positive effect on the faculty member.
